Seventeen miles outside of Smolensk.

You know da time, yeah?
I--I... Ah-hem... I-it is the d-day of b-battle?
Ain't it always.
And who sent you here?
Th-the A-Archangel... I escaped Republic control and was recruited outside Warsaw. I want to fight.
Not to question his choices, but I need me a driver. Last one got killed in a raid. Don't need more combat boots. So...
Stop it. We need all the help we can get. But... yeah.
Can you drive?
Da...I can do many things.

Abandoned sewer tunnel network. Beneath Smolensk.

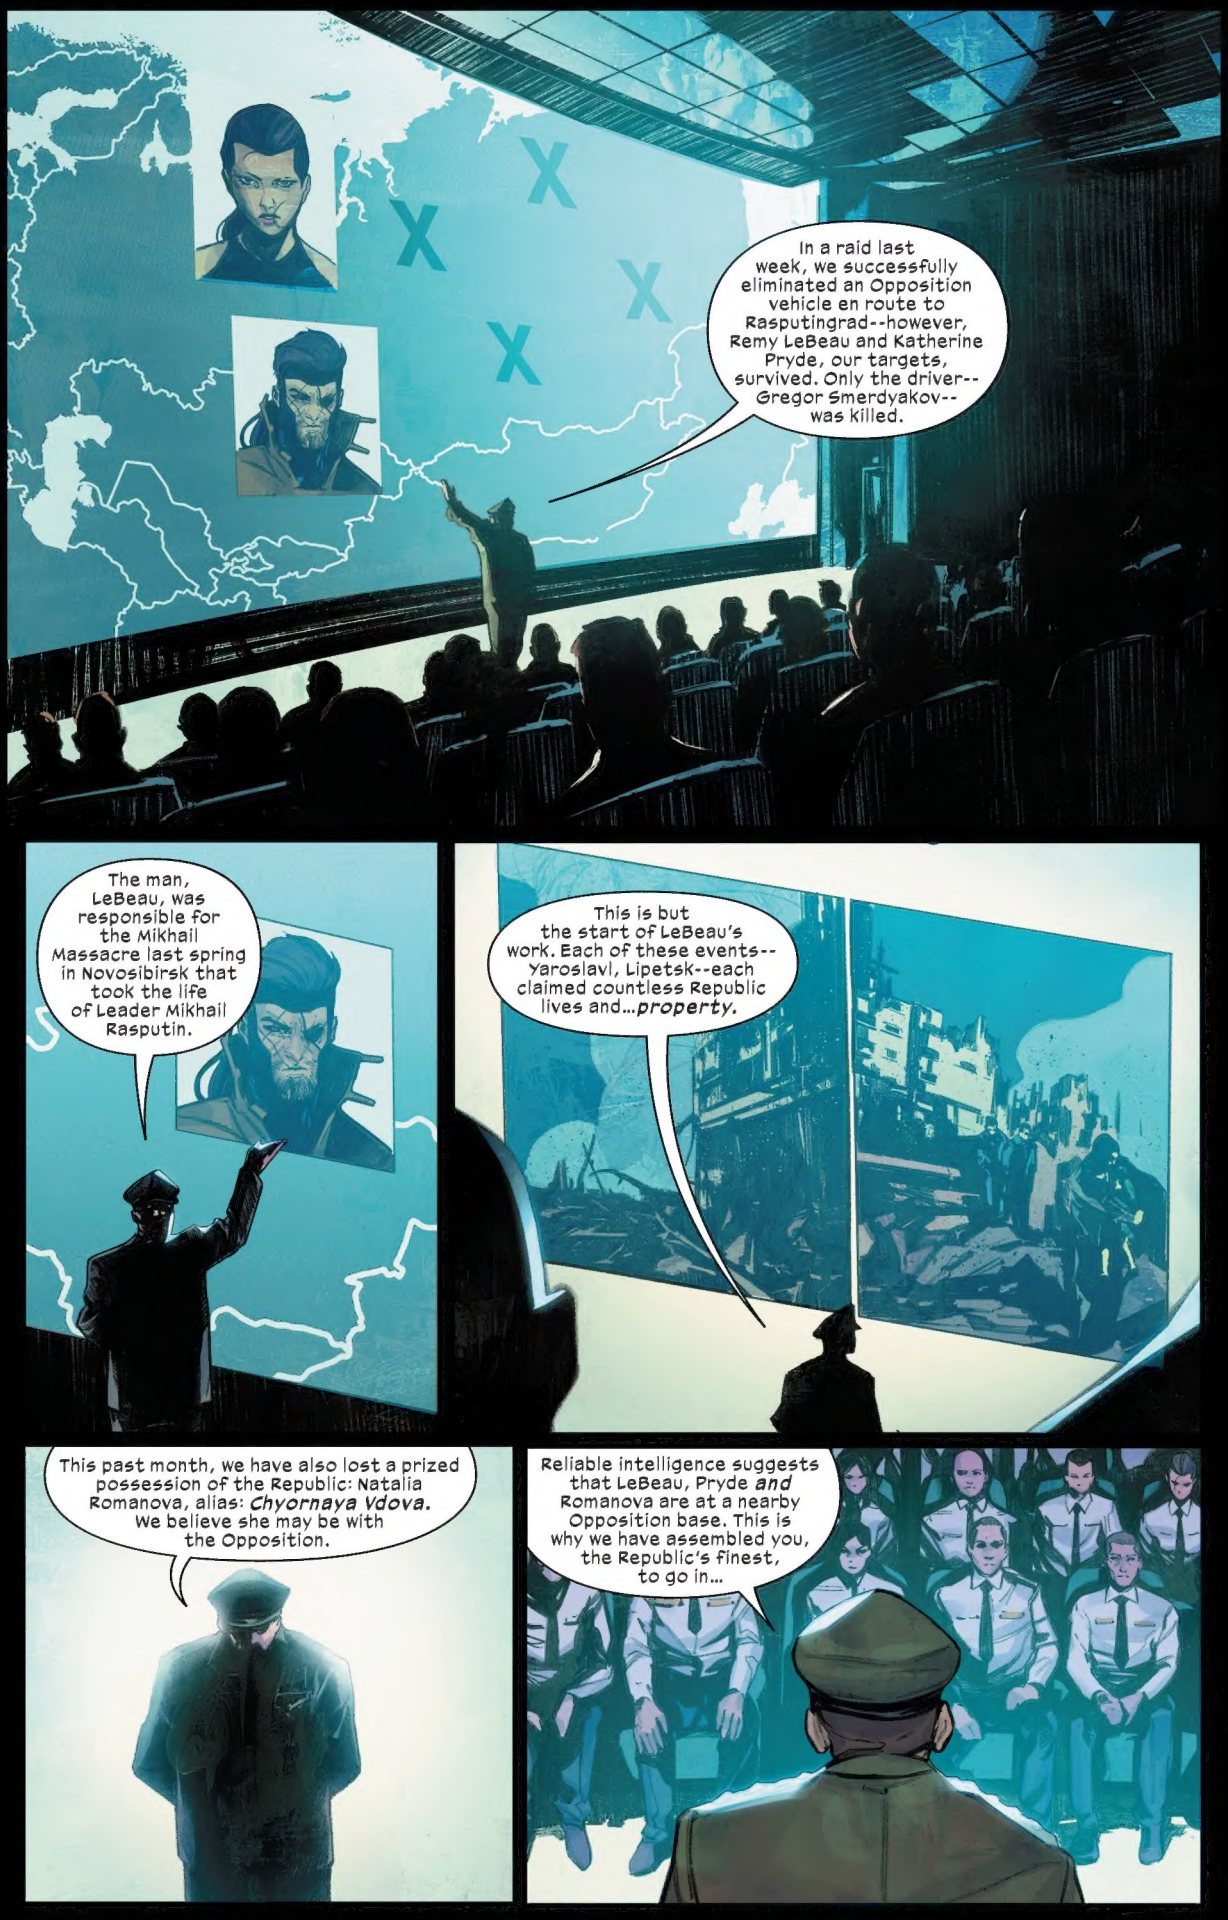
"--All of this was the work of two North American expatriates who have joined forces with the Opposition, in resistance of Eurasian supremacy."



In a raid last week, we successfully eliminated an Opposition vehicle en route to Rasputingrad--however, Remy LeBeau and Katherine Pryde, our targets, survived. Only the driver--Gregor Smerdyakov--was killed.
The man, LeBeau, was responsible for the Mikhail Massacre last spring in Novosibirsk that took the life of Leader Mikhail Rasputin.
This is but the start of LeBeau's work. Each of these events--Yaroslavl, Lipetsk--each claimed countless Republic lives and...property.
This past month, we have also lost a prized possession of the Republic: Natalia Romanova, alias: Chyornaya Vdova. We believe she may be with the Opposition.
Reliable intelligence suggests that LeBeau, Pryde and Romanova are at a nearby Opposition base. This is why we have assembled you, the Republic's finest, to go in...

"...and destroy their operations."
Psst. Did you get one of these too?
Huh?
Adamantium bullets.
Oh, yeah.
We all got them. Just in case...

Those're chess pieces... Chess pieces lining the tunnel.

BOOM
FABOOM FABOOM FABOOM

Okay, the truck's loaded, we just need--
BRMMMMMMMMM BRMMMMMMMMM
What was that?
The mines. Bad man's here.
Dem mines'll slow dem down, but we gotta get movin'. Like... yesterday.
Copy. Natasha, get the truck started. We're leaving now.
On it.

You stay up front. You know where to go. I'd get us lost going five feet in any direction.
You'll be okay?
C'mon...
...I always slip on through.
Heh. You got my blood boilin' yet, minou.
Keep it on a simmer for me.
RRRRRRR-RRRRRRRR
Oh, come on...I just escaped. Tell me you don't want to get me caught...

COVER DAT DOOR! Gimme guns! Go, go!
What do we got comin'?
Nothing good, Remy. It's one man...
Mais... One man?
Look.
Rougarou... Dis is crazy...
He's just got knives?
It looks that way, yes.
This don't feel good...
Man, why ain't dat truck moved? We gotta--

SHINK
RRRRRRRRRRRRR
Come now... Turn...
Hey! We best get dis show on da road--we wanna see 'nother day, yeah?

Mikhail Massacre: Terrorist strike in Novosibirsk claims life of Mikhail Rasputin

Leader Mikhail Nikolaievitch Rasputin, brother to Leaders Piotr and Illyana, has been killed in a brazen terrorist attack in the Republic city of Novosibirsk, the third such attack this year in as many months. The underground terrorist organization, known as "the Opposition," has been blamed for the cowardly attack, though they have not yet claimed responsibility. The Kremlin has declared today be remembered as "the Mikhail Massacre."

"We will hunt these terrorist dogs until their tainted blood runs in the streets," promised Leader Arkady Rossovich. "There is nowhere for them to hide that the Republic's eyes cannot see."

Video surveillance has provided three suspects, known associates of the terrorist organization. Henry McCoy, Remy LeBeau and a third, unknown female assailant, expatriates of the North America Union, have been implicated and charged with masterminding and carrying out this deadly terrorist attack on Republic soil.

McCoy and LeBeau were briefly held at the East Berlin Detention Center last year under suspicion of Opposition ties before escaping in the "Black December" riots which freed fifteen illegals, including McCoy and LeBeau, and left three guards and two others dead. Three others were seriously wounded.

"Do not be fooled, comrades—this heinous assault was an all-out attack on the sovereignty of our great Republic and its people, not just on one singular leader," Leader Piotr Rasputin said in an address. "This so-called 'Opposition' has spread lies and disinformation about the Republic, reveling in violent acts that have claimed the lives of innocent Republic citizens. Make no mistake—they are enemies of the people. The Republic will not stop hunting down these ruthless killers until justice has been served—and every last one of them is cold in the ground."

"May Mikhail remain in the memories of all Republic citizens," Leader Illyana added in her remarks. "For it may have been my brother today who was killed, but whose will it be tomorrow?"
